Dear Sir,

My request is clearly made in my first email(see bottom of these email chain), I don't type in Persian.
Please respect my request as mentioned.

I am sending this email to assure you the requester is the owner of the site <http://www.edic-baghdasarian.com>.

Thanks,

Dr. Edic Baghdasarian

Dear Dr. Baghdasarian

Thank you for your email and sorry to hear your request.

We have added your books to our library based on our understanding of the internet which being considered as a public domain unless access code is requested.

We have specific page for your books at <http://www.ketabfarsi.org/ketabkhaneh/nevisandeh/html/3636.html> as well as a link to your site at <http://www.ketabfarsi.org/ketabkhaneh/peyvand/digar.html> indicating your website is one of the sources that we provided books to our readers. We have been under the impression that you would like to spread your valuable researches and since we have had between 3500 to 8000 daily visitors then our site can do a better job in that regards than your personal webpage.

If you still want us to remove your books please:

1. Use your official email "edbagh@yahoo.com" as indicated in your contact page of http://www.edic-baghdasarian.com/contact_me.htm That would ensure us that the email is coming from you and somebody else.

2. A Persian letter indicating your request. Most of our visitors do not know English.

Upon the receive of the email from you, we will:

1. Replace all the links to your books with your letter. It could be helpful if you indicate the address to your website in your letter.

2. Remove the link to your library from our page at <http://www.ketabfarsi.org/ketabkhaneh/peyvand/digar.html> since your website will be no longer a source for KetabFarsi

With best regards

KetabFarsi
